

LANDOWNERS

Why Landowners Choose Borrego

Whether you're creating a lasting financial legacy for your family or a new source of long-term income from your land, get peace of mind working with a reliable and experienced solar company that knows what it takes to develop successful projects.

Built on Trust & Transparency

- Our core principle is to cultivate solid, honest relationships based on trust and transparency, so we always provide clear communication with you & your community.
- Our success over the last 40 years is based on the long-term partnerships we've built with landowners, neighbors, utilities, and local permitting authorities.

Better Decisions at Each Step

- Our skilled project developers guide you through the process of leasing your land for solar, starting with assessing your site and providing competitive lease rates.
- From your first meeting with our team, we act as your project advocate, working with local planning officials, neighbors, and the utility to develop and engineer a project that will perform for years.

Decades of Solar Expertise

- From our early days as a solar pioneer to our current position as an industry leading solar & energy storage company, we've spent decades honing our processes.
- Our experienced solar engineers and project managers diligently handle all the details of your solar project. We handle environmental studies and obtaining permits, entitlement, and receiving the interconnection agreement from the local utility.
- We have regional interconnection experts who work closely with the local utilities, anticipate any challenges or risks at the start of a project, and adhere to all regulations to ensure your project's success.

Family Owned & Operated

- As a family-operated business, we truly understand the importance of making careful choices for your land.
- We operate our business thoughtfully and profitably to ensure that we're around for the long term to honor our relationships and commitments.
